Les Bland Football Pioneer

The Warwick & District Football Association celebrated a significant milestone in their 25th anniversary on June 11th with a reunion dinner and weekend of commemorative activities. However, many may not have been aware that 86 year old Homestead Aged Person's Hostel resident in Allora, Les Bland had more than a passing involvement with football in this area. Recently a contingent of Allora based Warwick players donned the club colours to spend time with Les and get a feel for what it was like in the World game's formative years around Warwick. Mr. Bland certainly got a thrill to meet Dominic Benz, Cameron Davey and Sam Benz resplendent in their Warwick Wolves playing gear. He was presented with a club cap, and is a happy man he still has some touch with the wonderful organisation that is Warwick Football. He relived some of his moments and recollections about those early days when football battled for recognition in a town heavily focused on rugby league. But to borrow a phrase, "if you built it they will come", and come they did. Players of all ages keen to be involved in the newly formed football club, or soccer as it was more commonly known.

The former World War II RAAF serviceman relocated from Sydney to Warwick with his wife and family, working at the Horse & Jockey Hotel until retirement. Les was a well known name in the history of Warwick football. After formerly coaching the Caringbah "Rangers" in Sydney, he became heavily involved locally in the sport. He initially coached in Warwick in 1970, with many young players benefiting from his experience, and helping the Warwick club make the initial steps into competition soccer. He and his Sydney teams were fortunate enough to have access to the influence of former Polish

International and Sydney based Development Official, Leo Baumgartner. Baumgartner first came to Australia with FK Austria from Vienna in 1957. A year later he was back in Sydney having agreed to join the Prague club. He represented the new generation of highly skilled continental European migrants who were to dominate the game in the next twenty years. He played his first representative game for the Australian national team in 1964 against Everton. Australian football legend Johnny Warren said of Baumgartner that the game he brought to Australia was the modern passing game with the ball kept on the deck as much as possible. He always adhered to that philosophy, and he has been a key figure in the transformation of the code in this country.

Such was the calibre of coaching experience in the circles that Les Bland moved in his days coaching in NSW, knowledge and experience he brought to Warwick. Sydney boasted over 40,000 junior players, with Les' area, the Sutherland Shire having over 4000 players, more than all other football codes combined at the time.

Les is very proud of the advancement of football locally, the development of a junior body overflowing with young players to take the game ahead. But he is also particularly proud of the contribution Allora has made to local football, and the fact for Allora based and raised players in Robbie and Cameron Davey, Andre Benz and Dom Benz were honoured with selection in the Warwick team "of the Past 25 Years", along with Bill Manwaring who was raised in the area. Allora produced players with ability in Les' coaching days also, noting Allora's Ray Strachotta as one of those young players. Warwick & District Football Association Senior Football Co-ordinator Dom Benz found his meeting with Les, a man that played a role in laying the Association's foundations particularly interesting, if not invigorating. "It was great to meet and talk with such a great advocate for the sport of football, that was around in our beginnings, and witnessed it evolving locally" commented Mr. Benz. "Les has also seen our game grow in this country and on the world front".

For Les Bland, he sits with the look of satisfaction that he was among those who planted the seeds that have bred one of the Warwick districts' more significant sporting organizations.

Cassie Cronin, Christina Newcomb, Jenny Parker and Anita Washbourne from Allora Hairdressing Salon "Cassaz Colourful Curls" are ready for business, and according to them, "how old you are is your business, how young you look is their business".

New Faces at Cassies Curls

If you notice a few extra faces peering out from the glass front of Herbert Street business Cassaz Colourful Curls, it's because owner operator of the popular hairdressing haven Cassie Williams has added a little more expertise to her staff. Co-owner of Reppels B & B Christina Newcomb has been on board for the past month part time, with recent addition's Anita Washbourne and Jenny Parker. Anita is fulltime in the salon, while Jenny is casual. The reason for these ladies joining Cassies Hairdressing crew, the business owner and husband Ross are expecting their first child in September. After completing her apprenticeship with Warwick's Ally's Total Hair a little over three years ago, Cassie achieved her dream of owning her own Hairdressing Salon, and has been operating for two & a half years. "While the business is very healthy, having friendly people for support and knowing everyone as you do in a small community, also brings you close to your clients" says Cassie. The expectant Mum points out that "the addition of Christina, Anita and Jenny will cater for my absence and a growing work load in the coming months".

The friendly staff at Cassaz Colourful Curls can handle all your hairdressing needs, with colouring & up styling for weddings and formals is a specialty.

Jenny Parker is elated to be back working back in the "Best little Town on the Downs", Allora's atmosphere the great attraction for her. It's a homecoming of a sort after 22 years that saw Jenny residing in Brisbane with her family, before returning twelve years ago. In her early hairdressing career days, Jenny had a small salon at the rear of what is now the Allora Pharmacy, the shop then known as the Shopping Spot, a drapery owned by Jock Evans & Rae Masters. After a little over twelve months she moved on to marry and head to Brisbane. Jenny has plenty of expertise colouring hair, which has you thinking if she ever takes advice from her painting contractor husband Paul.

Cassie is more than confident her busy little salon is in very capable hands. Christina, Anita & Jenny are looking forward to getting to know Allora's community members, and according to them, "how old you are is your business, how young you look is their business".

QUEENSLAND HEALTH WARNS OF HOAX CALLS

Queensland Health is warning people to be aware of potential hoax callers requesting donations claiming to be from BreastScreen Australia.

Chief Health Officer Dr Jeannette Young said Queensland Health had received reports of a hoax caller asking for donations to raise money for women who needed accommodation while having treatment for breast cancer.

"The callers are making false claims they are ringing on behalf of BreastScreen Australia," Dr Young said.

"Neither BreastScreen Australia or BreastScreen Queensland depend on donations from the public for any services they provide, nor as government agencies are they involved in charitable organisations seeking donations."

"I urge people not to donate money or give out their bank details to people requesting donations by phone or letter.

"People should always be wary of anyone ringing and asking for bank details for any type of healthcare or charity."

Queensland Health's BreastScreen Queensland Program is part of the BreastScreen Australia Program and provides women over 50 with free, high-quality, evidence-based breast cancer screening. Women in their 40s and over 70 are also eligible to attend.

Women can ring 13 20 50 to make a booking for a Breastscreen.

DARLING DOWNS SEPTIC SERVICE

Judges for the blue ribbon event are Gary Barker of Glen Innes, Oakey's Roy Potticary and Gary Milgate of Yangan. Judging the Novice section of the Championships, Mr. Milgate has officiated previously at State level, and has competed and won at State Championship level. Since becoming involved in training sheepdogs in 1982, Mr. Milgate has gone on to win two Queensland titles in 2007 & 2008. In addition to these honours, he is the only Queensland resident to have won consecutive titles, and the first in forty years to win with his favoured breed, the kelpie.

He will travel to New Zealand this year as Judge/Manager of the Australian side for the annual series against the "Kiwis" at Auckland. The long standing respected judge also officiated in an Australia/New Zealand televised challenge back in 1990.

New Zealand will return to Australia next year for the annual Trans Tasman series for the Wayleggo Cup. The Wayleggo Cup was first presented by the New Zealand Sheep Dog Trial Association in 1994 for the Trans Tasman competition. The New Zealanders currently hold the bragging rights after defeating the Aussies last year at Port Fairy in Victoria, after being defeated themselves on home soil at Taupo in 2009. The Aussies have won the prestigious award on eleven occasions to the Kiwis total of fourteen titles.

Financing the tours is a significant impost on the Australian Sheepdog Worker's Association, "we are a not for profit organisation, and costs are high to arrange and transport sheep to events, so we could use some sponsorship opportunities" commented Mr. Milgate. Allora's State level event this weekend will require almost 500 local sheep.

Mr. Milgate is very enthusiastic about the success of the

The now retired property owner who farmed cattle, sheep & goats on a property in the Inverell/Bundarra area of NSW until relocating to Yangan eleven years ago, speaks highly of the Allora Showgrounds facility as a high quality sheepdog trials venue. "This is the second time a State Championships has been held in Allora". "It is an excellent venue, the setting and main ring among the best you'll see, always a convivial trials" Mr. Milgate said.

Warwick Town Crier bellows for national glory

Dalveen's Bob Townshend has been limbering up his larynx in preparation for the 21st National Championships of the Ancient and Honourable Guild of Australian Town Criers, which will be held in Maryborough this Friday and Saturday.

The Town Crier competition, which is expected to attract around 20 criers from all states except South Australia, will complement an exciting program of activities during Mary Poppins Festival Week.

Mr Townshend said the stiffest competition will definitely be current Australian champion Judy Campbell representing the shires of Murray, Victoria and Campaspe, NSW.

"I'll be going up against some of the country's finest criers including a second female crier, Melva Stott representing Torquay, Victoria, and former World and National Champion Graham Keating, representing the city of Sydney," Mr Townshend said.

The criers will be treated to a Mayoral reception at Gatakers Artspace on Friday evening, followed by Saturday's competition. Organiser Carmel Murdoch said that the criers will perform a Home Cry about their home town in the morning and in the afternoon, competition continues with a Mary Poppins themed cry.

"This is a colourful and fun event that you won't want to miss with all the criers performing in their colourful regalia from Maryborough's historic rotunda in Queens Park," Ms Murdoch said.

Mr Townshend, who played an impressive role in Warwick's recent 150th Celebrations, is confident that appearances at the Variety Nights, the Mayor's Gala Dinner, re-enactment of the first council meeting and the finale Party in the Park, have prepared him well for the competition.

He will feel particularly grand in his new attire, which was made in time for the 150th Celebrations by Dalveen artisans, seamstress Theresia Vanderpal and Grace Cameron, who designed the special scroll from which Mr Townshend will present.

are encouraged to roll up at the Showgrounds over the weekend and take in some of the action. Admission is free and the event is catered for over the three days by the Allora Show Society. "Allora business houses have been marvelous in their support for the event, and we are more than grateful to them all" acknowledged organizer Charlie Burt.

The sheep in the centre of the Allora Show Ring on Friday, Saturday & Sunday may appear as nervous as a long-tailed dog in a room full of rocking chairs, but onlookers will have the luxury of seeing those sheep herded around the show ring, fences, gates, or enclosures by some of our Nation's most outstanding dog's with the echoes of whistles & commands of some of Australia's top sheep dog handlers sounding in the back ground.

Looking Back...

Memories of Old Talgai

Dick Mills records his memories of Old Talgai from 1920 when he arrived there with his parents and sister.

"My father E. N. Mills was sent to manage Old Talgai for the owners Messrs. M. F. and R. C. Ramsay who were by that time resident in England. The property at that time consisted of approximately 3,500 acres which stretched for about five miles on the west bank of the Condamine River.

The old homestead was a large L shaped structure having about 6 fairly large rooms and was located about 1/4 mile from the river on the eastern slopes of a steep gravel ridge. There was a wide open verandah all round with the exception of the western side which was partially closed in. The verandah was 10 to 12 feet above the ground on the bottom side but the low part was at ground level and presented an easy target for white ants which contributed to the final demolition of the old house.

A large detached building housed a very large kitchen with perhaps the largest cooking range that I can remember seeing in a private house, a large pantry and gauzed-in meat and milk rooms. This building also contained three rooms to house female staff.

The out buildings were numerous and substantial. Away to the front of the house were a large hayshed and a complex of buildings, comprising barn, buggy and cart sheds, milking shed, horse stables and feed rooms, harness rooms and associated yards, carpenter's shop and close by, a worker's cottage. Quite close to the western side of the homestead was a large shed believed to have been the station store, and a little further to the rear was a building built of slabs which housed the office, accommodation room and a large laundry.

Further away from the house were worker's cottages, well built butcher's shop, a comprehensive set of cattle yards with a well designed slaughter house and ancillary buildings. Close by was a large shearing shed, perhaps about 16 stands or so if it had been run to full capacity. The most shearers that I can remember was perhaps about four, with all shearing done by blade shears. In the shed was a huge, and I would say cumbersome, wool press operated by a lever mechanism. There was also an elaborate wool loading ramp for loading the

Furtherest from the homestead were two large buildings known as the shearers' quarters, designed to accommodate a considerable team of shearers and shed hands. One was primarily for cooking and dining, the other for sleeping accommodation.

There had been a considerable garden and orchard; trees of note were a holly and a walnut. There were many others, probably some exotic types if I had known what they were. My first impression of the garden was that it was inhabited with kangaroo rats, goannas, wasps and snakes. We apparently caught the last fleeting glances of kangaroo rats because I cannot remember them after our initial settling in.

When we first went to Old Talgai there were no motor vehicles associated with the property. All carting was done by horse with spring cart or dray. All agricultural work was by horse pulled implements. Soon motor cars were to appear and some of the workers procured motorbikes.

In 1922 the homestead portion of the property comprising of about 900 acres was bought by Mr. Malcolm Livingstone. My father moved to manage the share dairy farm portion of the property. We lived in the renovated dairy farm house, and in 1928 my father bought the property and named it "Eagle's Nest". I lived and worked on "Eagle's Nest" until 1972 when it was sold to Mr. Tom Duggan, a well known Downs identity. Old Talgai homestead was finally demolished in 1952".

Local Liaison Officer Paul Morrish standing beside his DDMRB vehicle and a log pile that has been set on fire. The log pile was harbouring rabbits.

Rabbit Issue Heating Up

The Darling Downs - Moreton Rabbit Board (DDMRB) was established in 1964 through the amalgamation of two remaining district rabbit boards. The DDMRB is the only pest operational board under the Land Protection (Pest & Stock Route Management) Regulation 2003 and has two key functions. The board is responsible for maintaining the 555 km rabbit fence, which runs from Mt Gipps in the Lamington National Park to Goombi, West of Chinchilla where it joins the Wild Dog Barrier Fence, as well as assisting landowners within a 28,000 km² area (7 million acres) of South East Queensland to keep their land free of rabbit infestations. The Board has been replacing up to eighteen kilometres of fence per year over the last few years, at a cost of approximately $20,000 per kilometre.

With reported sightings of rabbits by residents and landholders within the Southern Downs Regional Council area on the increase, it is timely to commence a new program to assist landowners to destroy rabbit harbour and to reduce fire hazards. The DDMRB has recently appointed Paul Morrish as the Liaison Officer to identify and co-ordinate the reduction of ground harbour where rabbits are known to be living.

It is apparent that this program can benefit the DDMRB, landholders and the Rural Fire Brigades via the reduction of fire hazards and rabbit harbour. This opportunity for fire teams to participate in field training while assisting landholders to eliminate fire hazards and pest animal harbour would also be invaluable to all parties.

One of the many goals for this program is to reduce the fuel load of ground timber and log piles, with assistance from your local Fire Warden and the Rural Fire Brigades. The current

Letter to the Editor...

Dear Sir,

I stopped to chat, I thought amicably, with some people emerging from church, but later I found that some were scandalised because I was carrying the Sunday paper.

Well hey, there's nothing in the Bible to say Sundays are special, in which certain things shouldn't be done. Saturday, the seventh day, was for ages the Sabbath, but even that is not applicable anymore, being figurative and prophetic in this age in which we live (Romans 14:5,6, Hebrews 3:9,10).

This vital point seems often missed: "Love worketh no ill to his neighbour: therefore love in the fulfilling of the law." (Romans 13:10). Nothing about day observance there.

weather conditions are offering a stable environment in which to extend this program into Allora, Dalveen, Pratten, Killarney and Wildash or where rabbits are known to exist. Burns have already been undertaken in the Bony Mountain district with the involvement from the Bony Mountain - Pratten Rural Fire Brigade volunteers. These joint exercises will also assist the DDMRB to re-assess the full extent of the spread of rabbits, as a class 2 declared pest throughout the regional area. A key element for the success of the program is to identify and report rabbit sightings, therefore achieving an effective eradication program. Any isolated areas of high rabbit populations that may exist will be targeted as a first and high priority for maintaining control.

This program is being offered over a four month window to fit in with the safest burning period, within the Southern Downs Regional Council area. If the program is deemed successful by the Board, it may be extended to other local authority districts within the board's operational area.

Discussions have taken place with Qld Rail and Main Roads over the last few weeks, with co-operation being shown from both parties to commence reduction of rabbit harbours within their jurisdictions. Roadside harbours will also be targeted with the assistance of the Southern Downs Regional Council, who will provide water trucks and graders where required to assist with controlled burns.

The burning of rabbit harbour in the Massie, Wildash, Killarney, Warwick, Dalveen and Thane area is scheduled to take place over the next few weeks. It is imperative that all landholders and residents be involved with the program over the next few months.

Paul Storrs is the Mitigation and Education Officer for Qld Fire and Rescue Service - South West Region. Paul's role is to liaise with other government agencies to bring a co-ordinated approach to Fire Hazard Mitigation. Paul can be contacted on 4614 2869 and he is willing to help with any issues that may require his assistance.

Any residents who sight rabbits on their properties, or landholders with rabbit harbour requiring burning, please contact Paul Morrish on 0427 132 709 or the Rabbit Board office on 4661 4076.

Get your hands on free updated weed identification book

Southern Downs Regional Council is urging land owners to get their copy of the third edition of 'Weeds of Southern Queensland'. The long-awaited update published by the Weed Society of Queensland and sponsored by Regional Councils of Southern Queensland is now available after being officially launched by the Honourable Mike Horan earlier this month. It is now available for free from Council offices.

Ken Harris, Council's Director of Planning & Environment, said Council fully supports the publication and distribution of this booklet.

"It's an invaluable tool to help people identify problem declared plants," Mr Harris said.

Weed Society President Rachel McFadyen said the publication had pictures and identifying information for 132 common weeds of southern Queensland, with information on their management including the herbicides registered for use.

"This update contains information on more weeds, and caters for a wider audience including farmers, contractors, service providers and peri-urban dwellers," Dr McFadyen said.

"Previous editions of this book were so popular that they sold out long ago, and more than 90% of the 60,000 copies of this current edition were sold prior to printing."

Dr McFadyen said the Weeds of Southern Queensland publication had been the first port-of-call for basic and practical weed identification and management information for land managers from all backgrounds since 1996.

"This new edition will be invaluable to everyone working to manage weeds."

The book has been developed by a working group of Weed Society of Queensland members with a great depth of weed management experience across Southern Queensland. They represent local government, state government agencies, research and development companies and regional natural resource management bodies.

Weeds of all types are covered including woody weeds, cacti and succulents, vines, groundcover and herbs, grasses, and aquatics. There is an extensive section on weed management techniques and weed hygiene. Declared weeds are listed, together with a page on landholder obligations for control of these Class 1, Class 2 or Class 3 weeds.

Copies are available from Southern Downs Regional Council as well as the Queensland Government, Dow AgroSciences, Technigro, and the Queensland Murray-Darling Basin Committee.

Wattles Stars Return Home

In what ranks as one of Wattles biggest coup, club President Barry Glass signed former Wattles junior player and Brisbane Broncos great Shane Webcke for the remainder of the 2011 Toowoomba Rugby League season. If that wasn't a big enough catch in itself, Wattles have also signed another former junior in Tony Duggan, back in Australia recently from a very successful season in France.

Both Webcke and Duggan will be quite happy to idle away in reserve grade, but would like to be involved with Warriors.

They are certain to lift the Wattles gate attendances at Platz Oval. The 36 year old Webcke wore the Brisbane Broncos colours from 1995 until 2006 playing 254 games. He made his NRL debut in May 1995 for the Broncos against North Sydney. He was a member of the Queensland State of Origin side from 1998 to 2004 playing in 21 matches, and has 20 tests for Australia to his credit.

Duggan was unlucky not to have played more than his single match for the Brisbane Broncos in July 2003, injury robbing him of opportunities. He is one of a select group who have played over 100 Queensland Cup matches, a former mainstay in the Toowoomba "Clydesdales". However his move to Britain in 2006 saw him achieve star status with the Celtic Crusaders, playing 88 matches with the Welsh super League club. He scored the first ever try for the "Crusaders" and is the club's record try scorer, with 101 over four seasons between 2006 and 2009, including a record 40 in the 2007 season. He was Duggan is keen to play with his brothers Mark & Michael at Wattles, having a brief stint with the club last year. Webcke's appearances however will be governed by his media commitments. The two Wattles achievers ironically shared the Brisbane Broncos presentation stage in 2005, Shane Webcke Bronco's "Player of the Year" and Tony Duggan Bronco's "Clubman of the Year". The one certainty is, the day they both run on at Platz Oval, it will be standing room only around the ground.

Wattles Stalwart Celebrates 75 Matches

Wattles Rugby League Club stalwart Aaron Scheid celebrated his 75th first grade match on Sunday at Platz Oval with a mighty victory over the Gatton "Hawks". The 25 year old lock forward debuted in first grade back in 2004, in Wattles Round five 28 - 12 victory over Newtown. He had his first year with the Wattles senior club in 2003, when he played in all 21 season matches, after graduating from the Wattles Junior Club's Under 16 side. After a sterling season he was awarded the "Vince Birmingham Memorial Trophy" as Wattles Best & Fairest Under 18 player. Scheid hit is straps in earnest in 2004, making his "A" Grade debut, playing seven top grade matches along with eighteen Under 18 appearances and was named Wattles "Junior Clubman of the Year", as well as the club's "Junior Footballer of the Year". The club loyalist missed a couple of Wattles seasons after heading to Canada for a spell, and a knee injury that ruled him out of 2010. However, his off field contribution as a Wattles committee member, and current Junior Vice President of the club, have him involved in all facets of keeping the "Green & Gold" Warriors as a force in the Toowoomba Rugby League. Also the current club captain, Scheid's off field efforts were recognised last year when he won the prestigious Tom Webcke Memorial trophy as Wattles' Best Clubman. Coaches Russell and Glen McMillan are more than happy with Scheid's form this year, the tireless toiler having a boom 2011 for his club.

Wattles Roll On Winning in Scheid's 75th

Sunday's Wattles verses Gatton first grade Toowoomba Rugby League fixture was billed as a "clash of the titans", and it measured up in every way, Platz Oval supporters thrilled with the "National Farmer's Warehouse" Warriors finishing ahead at full time 26 - 18.

The match, another in a steady line of conquests as Wattles keep marching on, Sunday's win their fifth from their last six outings, all occurring since the McMillan brothers Glen and Russell took over the coaching helm back in early May.

The gutsy win was an ideal result for stalwart workaholic lock forward Aaron Scheid to celebrate his 75th first grade match for Wattles.

The main game was preceded by a minutes silence in memory of former Wattles player James McCarthy, brother of club committee member Steve McCarthy. Mr. McCarthy passed away on June 23rd, Wattles win taking on even more significance because of the loss of a former clubman, his nephews Michael and Matthew McCarthy shining in the Wattles victory and scoring a try apiece.

Glen McMillan sang the praises for his side loud and long at the post match presentations, and while all in his 17 man line up deserve a bucket of that praise, the efforts of Matt McCarthy were sensational. The star studded Gatton side boasting players with NRL and State League experience had their hands full throughout as McCarthy regularly launched himself into the "Hawks" defensive line. His ability to hit the line and roll in tackles, along with his strength to be able to stand and offload has him marked as one of the Toowoomba competitions leading forwards. Wattles pack did all that was asked of them, the engine room troop of Scheid, Glen McMillan, Luke Baker, Matt McCarthy and the front row of Ashley Evans, Jason Nightingale, Brady Glass and Liam Ross paved the way for the "Green & Golds" outstanding halves of Rob Woodbridge and Jeff Nielsen to create the point scoring opportunities.

The "Hawks" got there ginger up to be the first to score through their former Wynnum-Manly five-eighth Denny Lambert in the 18th minute after both sides tested themselves with some grandstand shaking defence in the opening stages. The Justin Van Der Poel tackle on opposite flanker Jason Bilich will go down as one of the great tackles executed on the turf of Platz Oval.

Lambert, 2004 QRL Queensland Cup "Player of the Year", was a constant danger for Wattles, his playmaking and organisational ability will above average. He had his side appearing on the verge of another try in the north east corner of Platz Oval seven minutes later, when the tide suddenly turned for Wattles, their winger Van Der Poel intercepting and racing 80 metres to score. The try sparked the Warriors into action, five eighth Jeff Nielsen holding up a pass before stepping right fifteen metres out and feeding back-rower Luke Baker who scored. Nielsen also touched down six minutes later after bursting through from the scrum base for Wattles, and along with front-rower Brady Glass' three goals from three attempts in the first half, had the home side leading 18 – 6 at the break.

Gatton found another gear after half time, and a try by former Ipswich Queensland Cup fullback Aaron Werth in the 55th minute could well have been a turning point in the game, after a twenty metre charge to Wattles quarter line by big front-rower Lachlan Hauser. Hauser lost the ball after being felled in a tackle, but when Werth scooped up the loose pill Referee Peter Towser ruled play on resulting in a vital "Hawks" try. Not to be outdone, the magic of "Warriors" gifted number six Nielsen emerged five minutes later for all to see, throwing an amazing pass over his shoulder as he ran into the north east corner well taken by winger Michael McCarthy who cantored around toward the goal posts to score. Wattles had a handy 22 – 12 lead, but the "Hawks" were far from done, former North Queensland "Cowboys" and Parramatta "Eels" back-rower Chris Muckert bursting over for a four-pointer. With ten minutes remaining the "Hawks" lifted, camped in Wattles territory and pummelling their line. Wattles defence was lock tight though, until Luke Baker got possession & carved a gap through the mid field before off loading to Jeff Nielsen & sending him on his way in a 50 metre gallop to the line and hopefully another try. It wasn't to be though, Gatton's classy fullback Werth scuttling Nielsen inches from the try line in the north west corner. Giant centre Muckert burst out of the line to take an intercept but incurred a penalty eight metres from the "Hawks" tryline. Gatton were spread wide to defend off their line, but when Matt McCarthy took the ball from hooker Liam Ross and charged over, along with his show of brute strength he seemed to catch some defenders napping as he powered in to score to seal the match.

Aside from Player of the Match honours, Matt McCarthy was named Player's Player, hooker Liam Ross also among Wattles best playing like a man twice his size. Ross' defensive technique and timing must rate him as one of the most effective tacklers in the competition. Jeff Nielsen continues his run of silky form, his play making brilliance and combination with clever halfback Woodbridge at the forefront of Wattles attacking firepower.

The win for Wattles has them in ninth place on the Toowoomba Rugby League ladder with twelve competition points. They are level with Pittsworth, Southern Suburbs & Newtown, all on twelve points, and all only one point outside the top five. A win over Southern Suburbs this Sunday in Toowoomba could see Wattles fall into the final five in what has been an amazing resurgence since mid May.

In lower grades the Warriors brought home the bacon in both matches.

Lock forward Lauchlan Hoey had a mighty all round match for the Wattles "Railway Hotel, Allora" reserve grade side in their 56 – 36 win over Gatton. Hoey had sterling support from centre Coedie Tandy, who has returned to Wattles after a few seasons' absence, and reliable hooker Josh McIntosh. Captain Coach Robbie McIntosh opened the scoring with an early try, followed by Coedie Tandy after a great Josh McIntosh run. Tandy also figured in an Anthony McIntosh try to see Wattles ahead 16 – 0 after twenty minutes. Anthony McIntosh and fullback Brandon Cubby kept the scoreboard ticking over for Wattles, the home side ahead 26 – 6 after 26 minutes. The Cubby try appeared to be a signal the Warriors were in need of a spell, Gatton charging back to score eighteen unanswered points before halftime and trail 24 – 26 at the break. Winger Aaron Hooper gave a display of his ample speed to cross for two tries in the first five minutes of the new half, and while the "Hawks" answered the call to draw level 36 all with fifteen minutes remaining, a three try burst to finish the match saw the "Warriors" snatch the competition points.

As with their first grade team mates, Rob McIntosh's reserve grade side are also one point outside the top five on the ladder, and will be keen to post a win over fourth placed Southern Suburbs on Sunday.

Wattles 56 (Coedie Tandy 2, Aaron Hooper 2, Anthony McIntosh 2, Brandon Cubby, Damian McDonald, Robert McIntosh, Ashley Muller tries; Anthony McIntosh 7, Brandon Cubby goals) defeated Gatton 36.

Sixteen year old winger Ryan Lewis is improving with every run in the "green & gold", and impressed Coach Wally McIntosh in the "Allora Foodworks" Wattles 32 – 10 victory over Gatton. Lewis was named Wattles best player, wearing the halfback jersey in the absence of Michael Duggan. Fullback Brandon Cubby & five eight Josh Henry also impressed in the Wattles ranks. Wattles' dominance was obvious by the half time siren, leading the "Hawks" confidently at 28 – 0. Gatton revitalised somewhat in the second stanza, scoring two tries to Wattles one by high performing forward Jim Johnson. It was too little to late though for the "Hawks", Wattles controlling play until the end to finish with their fifth win of the season. Wattles were without solid performers Michael Duggan & Alex Morris, both away in Yeppoon for the Queensland Confraternity Shield, Wattles 32 (Brandon Cubby, Ryan Grady, Lee Lousick, Carl Gale, James Johnson, Ashley Dempsey tries; Anthony McIntosh 4 goals) defeated Gatton 10.

Wattles take on the Southern Suburbs "Tigers" at Toowoomba's Clive Berghofer Stadium next Sunday, kicking off with the Under 18 grade at 11.30 am.
